

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT SURVEY

Gallup's "State of the American Workplace" survey was published earlier this year. This infographic highlights data from the survey's 350,000 respondents over a three-year period, illuminating how Americans feel about their jobs.

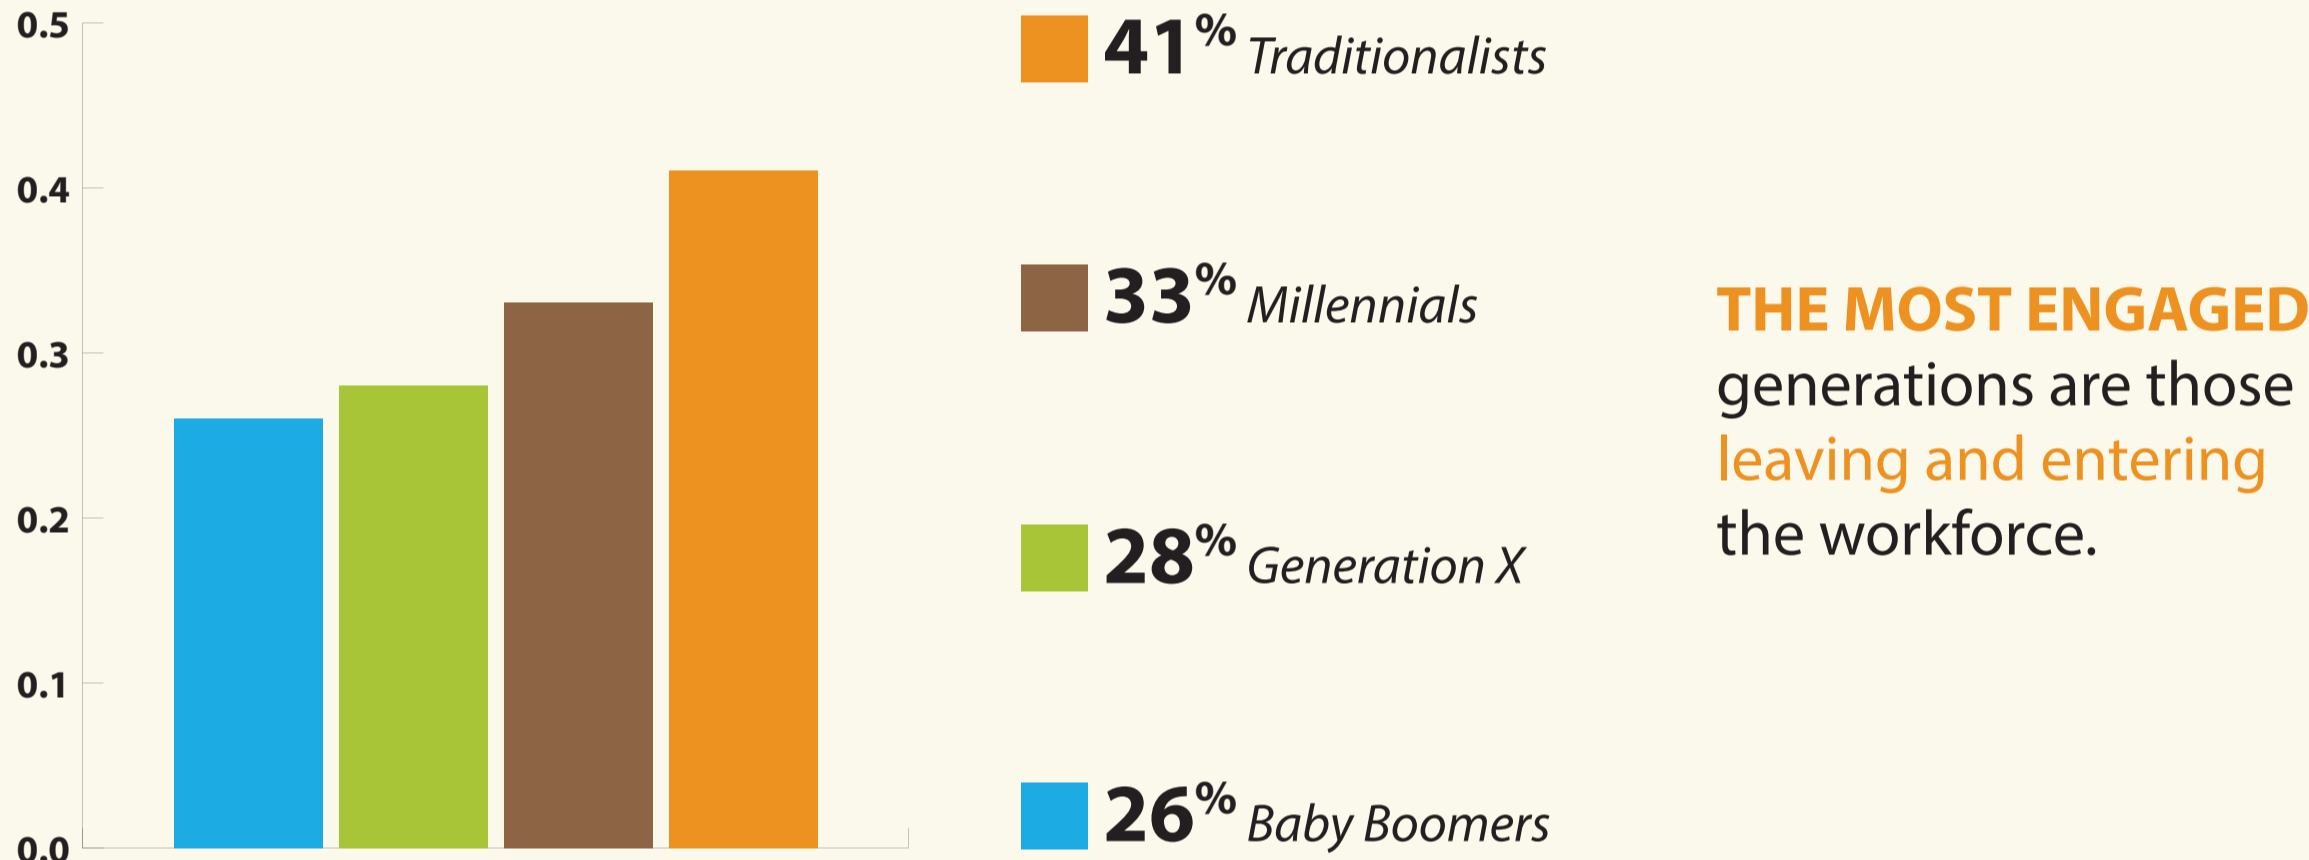

OVERALL RESULTS

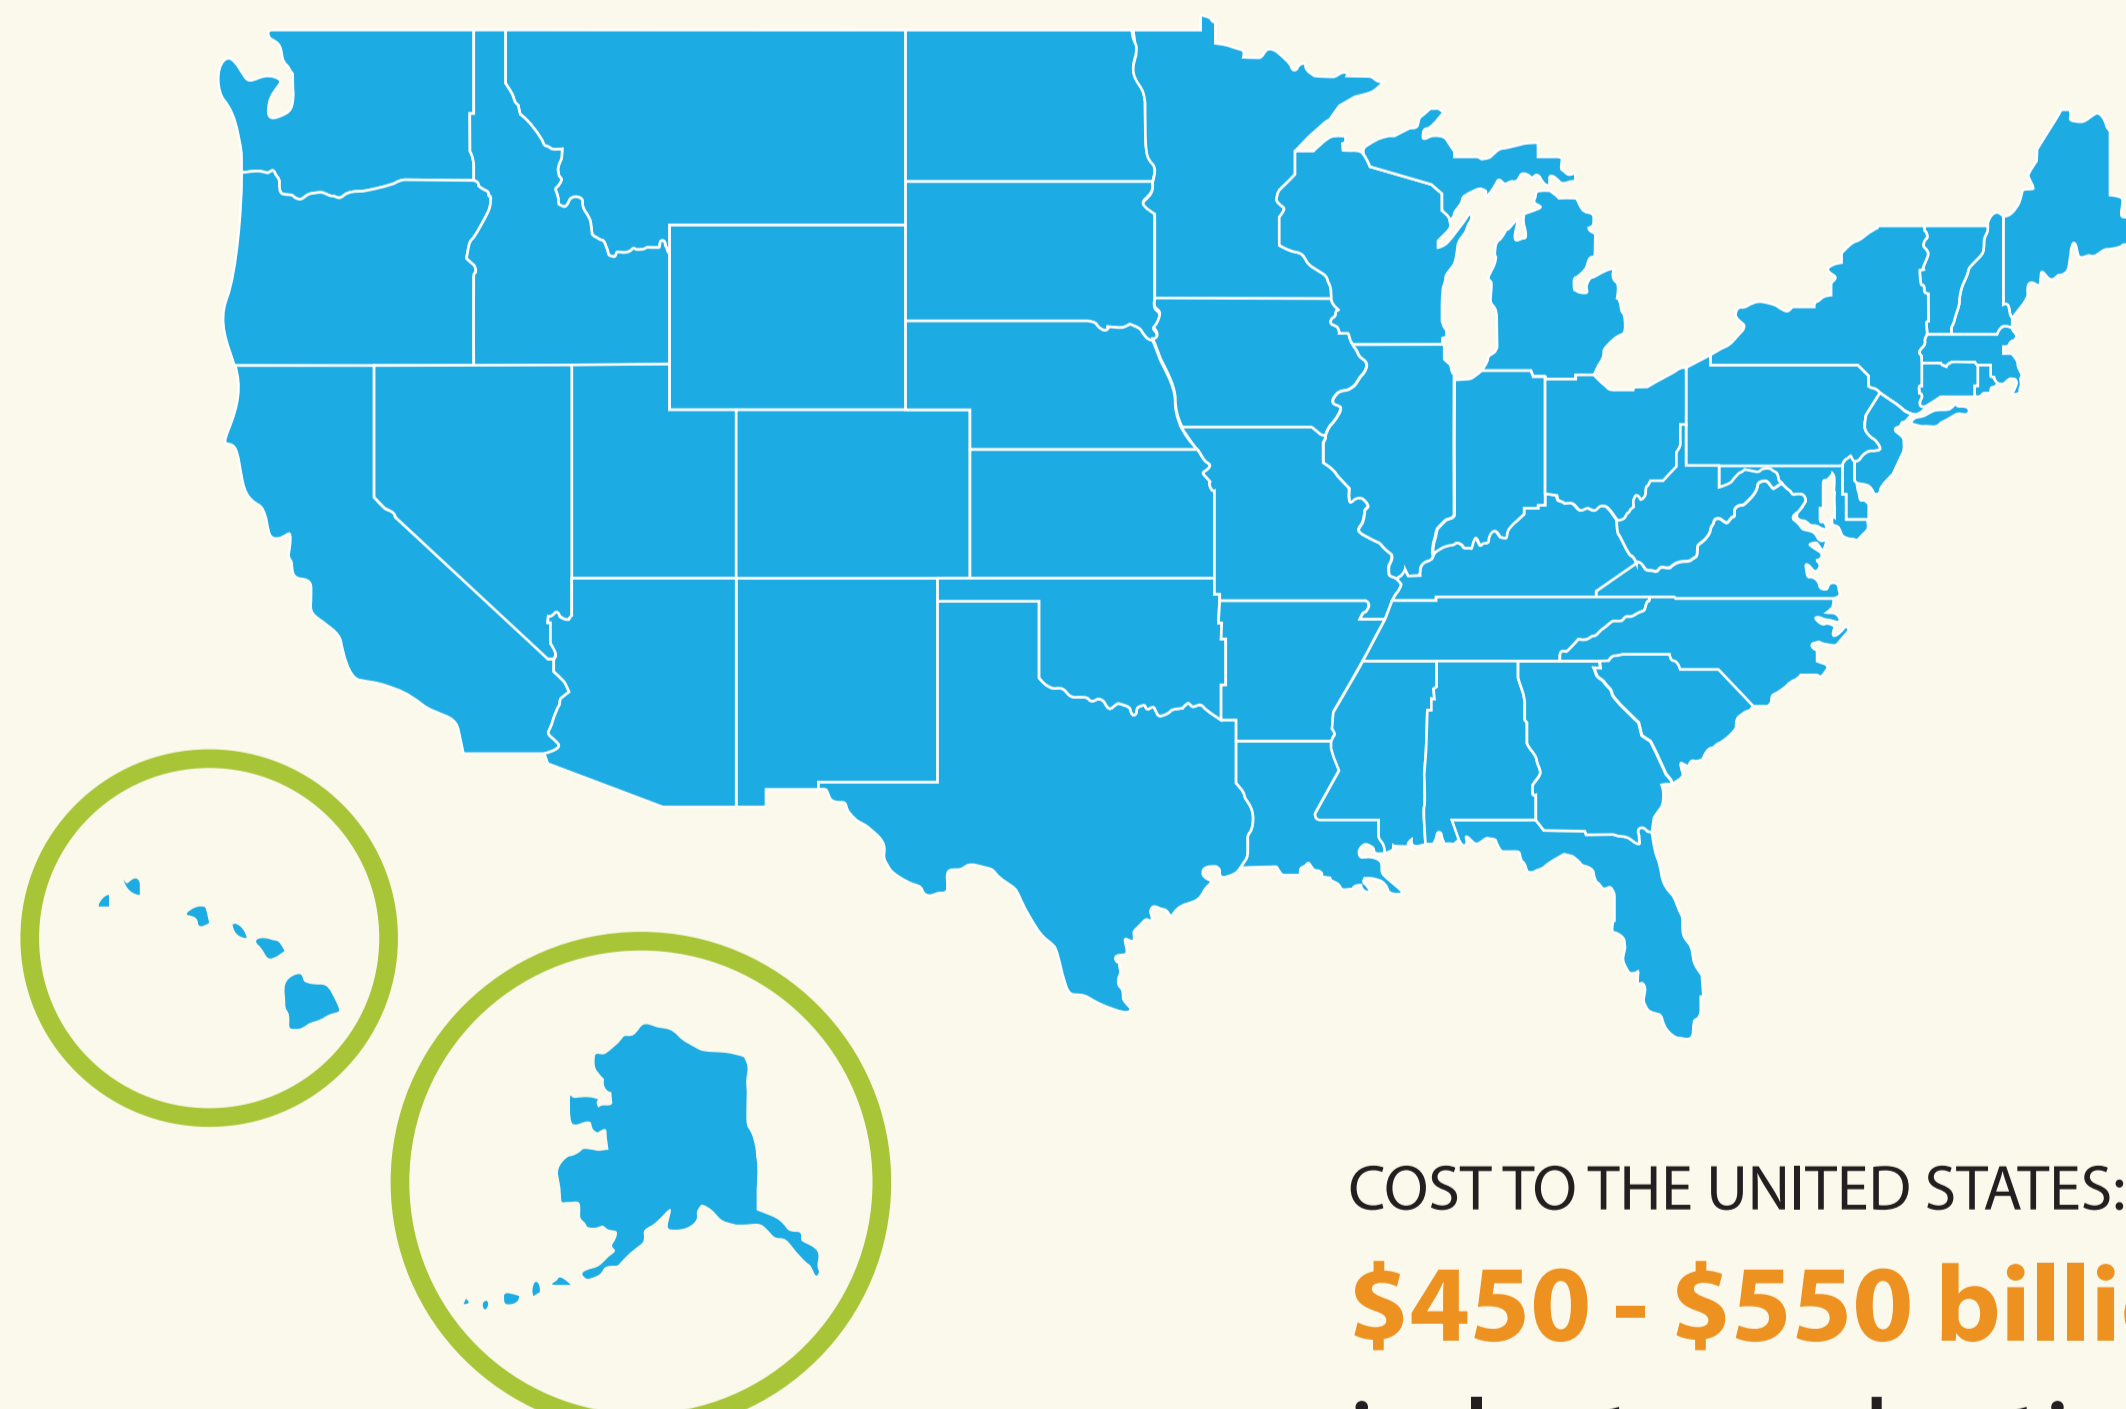

MEN VS WOMEN

ENGAGEMENT BY GENERATION

REMOTE VS ON-SITE

TOO FEW BRAND AMBASSADORS

Only 41% of employees felt they know what their company stands for and what differentiates them from the competition.

THE BOTTOM LINE

An engaged workforce makes good financial sense. Companies with highly engaged employees have considerably higher productivity and profitability ratings with less turnover and absenteeism.

SOURCE:

Gallup "State of the American Workplace" Employee Engagement Survey

brought to you by:

